

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)

What is it?

- ✓ Law passed by congress and signed by president in 1990 to make it possible for everyone with a disability to live a life of freedom and equality.
- ✓ First comprehensive declaration of equality for people with disabilities
- ✓ Protects the civil rights of people with disabilities in all aspects of employment, in accessing public services such as transportation, and guaranteeing access to all public accommodations

Employment:

- ✓ Employers may not discriminate against an individual with a disability in hiring or promotion if the person is otherwise qualified for the job.
- ✓ Employers will need to provide "reasonable accommodation" to individuals with disabilities. This includes steps such as job restructuring and modification of equipment.

Transportation:

- ✓ New public transit buses ordered after August 26, 1990, must be accessible to individuals with disabilities.
- ✓ New bus and train stations must be accessible and all existing stations must be made accessible.

Public Accommodations:

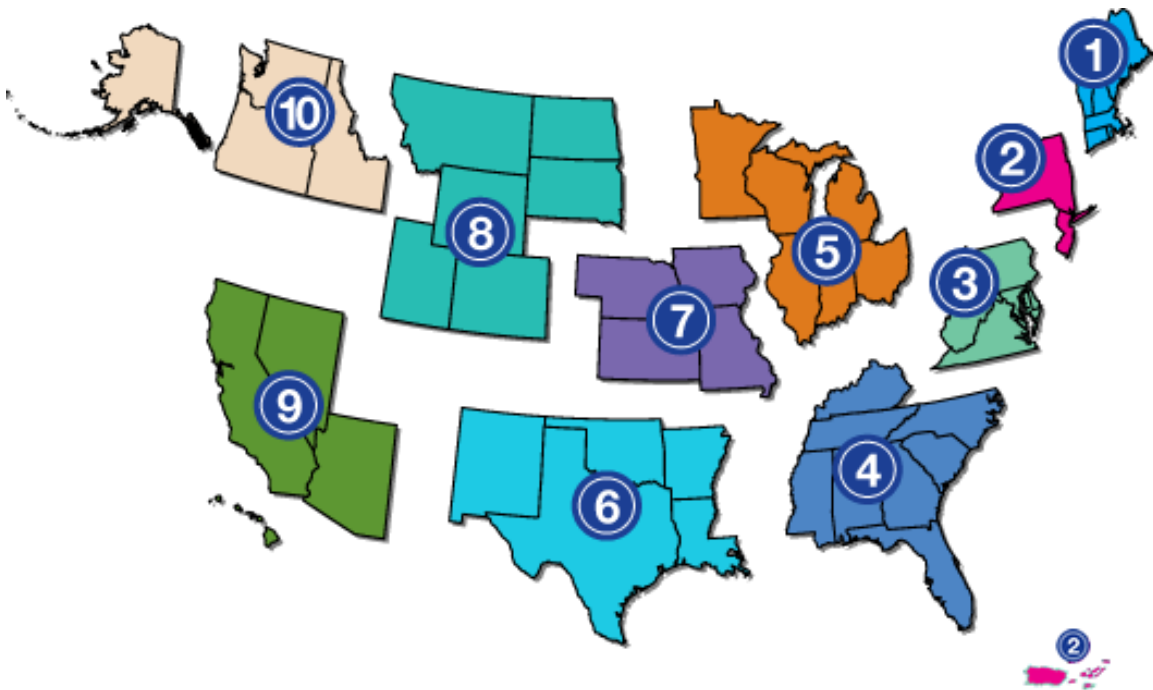

- ✓ Private entities such as restaurants, hotels, and retail stores may not discriminate against individuals with disabilities.
- ✓ Physical barriers in existing facilities must be removed, if removal is readily achievable. If not, alternative methods of providing the services must be offered, if they are readily achievable. All new construction and alterations of facilities must be accessible.

ADA National Network

- Provides information, guidance and training on the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), to people with disabilities, employers, and other entities with responsibilities under ADA.
- Consists of 10 Regional ADA National Network Centers located across the country.
